DISPENSARY IN THE SENATE

CREATED QUITE A LIVELY LITTLE BREEZE.

After considerable discussion the Senators agree to Mr. Glenn's Bill, and it goes through.

The Telegram was mistaken yesterday in saying that the bill to abolish the dispensary passed the House. It should have been the Senate. The following account of its passage is taken from the Post:

Senator Glenn introduced the following bill and asked immediate consideration and passage: Senate Bill 14, providing for the repeal of Chap. 254, Acts 1899, establishing a whiskey dispensary for Guilford county at Greensboro. Under this bill operation of the dispensary, as such, is to stop Feb. 1, 1901, and the stock remaining on hand at that date to be disposed of at wholesale, or as agreed, and that five months (or until July 1) be allowed for this purpose.

In speaking of his bill Senator Glenn called attention to the fact that the last Democratic county convention (the largest ever held) it was agreed to submit the matter of continuing the dispensary system to the white voters of the county; that this had been done and that they (by a majority of more than 2,000) had voted against the continuance of the dispensary system, it having been agreed and generally understood that in the event of such result this Legislature would, as soon as it assembled, be asked to relieve the people of the unpopular dispensary. That was why he was now offering this measure; both members of the House from Guilford being as earnest advocates of the bill as himself.

Senator McNeill, of Cumberland, arose and stated that his county was in a similar condition, the only exception being that the primary of white voters had not yet been held, but he was an anti-dispensary man, predicted that they would vote it out of his county also. He hoped that the request of the Senator from Guilford for immediate consideration would be granted, and he wanted the same courtesy extended to him when he should arise for a like purpose.

Senator Foushee opposed immediate consideration, and moved to refer to the Committee on Propositions and Grievances. He did not oppose the bill, but believed that all bills should be formally and properly considered by the proper committees.

Senator Aycock agreed with Mr. Foushee, and went further. He thought the dispensary system of selling liquor should be generally adopted. He thought he saw a fine avenue here to increase the school fund and thereby materially assist in carrying out our promises to the "mothers crying out for the education of their sons and daughters." "I know of no channel through which the State could derive revenue easier than by levying tax on the sale of liquor, and if it is best for the State to go into the dispensary business to secure the necessary revenue, then I favor it."

Senator Glenn explained that the dispensary authorities (county and municipal) had paid the $500 tax for this year and that the school fund would lose nothing. On the other hand, the barmen could be licensed at once, if this bill passes, and the money secured from them (full amount for whole year) would be added to the school fund, etc.

Senator Woodard made the point (in favor of immediate action) that no committee could act more intelligently on this subject than did the white voters of Guilford at their primary.

Senator Morrison thought the Senate needed and wanted no further information than that of the white people of the county affected opposed the dispensary.

Senator Morton felt sure the committee to which it was sought to refer the bill would unhesitatingly recommend it, and there was no good reason for the delay.

Senator Webb favored immediate action. Not only those who piled up the big majority, but all who participated in the primary, under the agreement, are now asking for the repeal of the law. Let's respect their wishes and do so without delay.

The vote was then taken (viva voce) on Senator Foushee's motion to refer, and it was lost by an overwhelming majority, only a half dozen Senators, apparently, voting against immediate consideration.

The bill was then passed by a unanimous vote, no "noes" being heard, and was ordered sent to the House for concurrence.

LIABILITY OF MUNICIPALITIES.

A Very Important Matter Heard Before the House Judiciary Committee Today. Special to The Telegram.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Representatives of municipalities throughout the country appeared before the Judiciary Committee of the House today relative to the bill proposing to give the Federal Courts means of enforcing their judgment against municipalities. An important departure from existing law is involved in the proposition, and one affecting all cities and towns which borrow money on bonds or otherwise.

At present there is no means of enforcing judgments from the Federal Courts on these obligations, and many peculiar conditions have arisen in Missouri, Wisconsin and Texas, through efforts to enforce them. The United States Supreme Court has ruled that mandamus against the local tax officers to compel them to put the obligation on the tax rolls is the only remedy. But in several cases the local officials have avoided the mandamus by resigning. Several exciting incidents have occurred in some of the cases, the local officials taking to the woods to avoid service.

The judgment creditors, representing directly and indirectly many millions of dollars of claims against municipalities, have been heard by the Judiciary Committee, and it is now desired to hear from the municipal debtors. The plan under consideration is to authorize the United States District Court at the place where a municipality is in default and the local officers fail to act, to appoint a special tax officer to assess the tax.

Representative Jenkins, of Wisconsin, chairman of the sub-committee having the matter in charge, says it is the first instance in which the power of the Federal courts is sought to be extended to municipalities. Aside from the many millions involved, Mr. Jenkins says the matter is specially important not only to municipalities in default, but to those desirous of protecting their credit and securing low interest rates.

THE DISPENSARY BILL.

Provides That the Dispensary Shall Cease January 31st, But Manager May Thereafter Dispose of Stock.

The bill which has been introduced in the Legislature to repeal the Dispensary act, provides that the repeal of the law shall go into effect February first, at which time the Dispensary ceases to exist. The managers of the Dispensary are given to July 1st to dispose of the stock at wholesale or otherwise, except that no sales shall be made in quantities less than two gallons. The bonds of the officers shall remain in force till the business is closed up and settled with the county commissioners.

Thus, barrooms may be opened as soon after January 31st as license can be obtained.

The bill was drawn by Mr. R. R. King.

The city should have a bill put through increasing the license to $1,000 before any licenses are granted.

To Apply for License Tonight.

It is understood that there will be two applications before the Board of Aldermen tonight for permission to open barrooms in the city, both by men who were in the business before the dispensary law took effect. Under the law all applications to open saloons must lie over two weeks before they can be acted upon.

It is reported that several men who contemplate opening saloons in Greensboro in the near future, have already ordered their stocks, so as to be ready for business immediately upon being granted license.

DISPENSARY GONE.

SENATE BILL PASSES HOUSE.

BILL PASSED TO INCREASE GOVERNORS' SALARY TO $4,000.

Said to Have Cost Governor Russell to Live During His Term $11,000 More Than His Salary—Going For the Kidnappers. Special Dispatch to The Telegram.

Raleigh, Jan. 11.—Bills were introduced in the Senate today to allow the formation of companies with over one million dollars capital, to repeal the law prohibiting the use of due bills as money, to allow a woman a divorce when her husband has been sentenced to imprisonment for five years.

The committee favorably reported the bill increasing the Governor's salary to four thousand dollars, and it passed by a vote of 35 to 12, after a spicy debate into which politics were dragged.

It was said that it cost Governor Russell $11,000 more to live than he received as salary during his four years term of office. Three Democrats voted against the bill.

E. B. Norvell was elected enrolling clerk.

Allen, of Wayne, is to be chairman of the House judiciary committee.

A bill was introduced in the House requiring all bills to be in duplicate, and all public ones to be printed immediately.

One to punish kidnapping of children, and one to remove the disabilities of married women.

The Senate bill passed abolishing the Greensboro dispensary.

The Senate bill increasing the Governor's salary was referred to a special committee.

THE TELEGRAM is the boldest secular paper that comes to this office. It truckles to no human being, but right or wrong, speaks its own mind. It is a good thing for an editor to own his soul. May his tribe increase.—Charity & Children.

OPERA HOUSE RENTED.

Mr. S. A. Schloss, the Successful Manager of Wilmington, Gets It.

Mayor Taylor today closed a trade with Mr. S. A. Schloss, of Wilmington, for the Opera House for two years from June 1, 1901, he to take charge of it as soon as it is ready for use. The trade is subject to the approval of the Aldermen at their meeting tonight.

Mr. Schloss is a successful manager, having been in the business for years. He is now, and has been for a long time, manager of the Wilmington Opera House. He has put upon the boards there some of the best plays and players of the country, and as good as has ever been to this State. It is safe to say that he will give the Greensboro people as good as can be brought to this section.

Old Cotton Mill Collapses.

Lowell Special to Charlotte Observer.

On the 26th of December people residing in the vicinity of Gaither's Cotton Mill (formerly owned by J. and E. B. Stowe, located on the South Fork of the Catawba river, in Gaston county), were startled by a loud noise resembling that of an earthquake. Investigation developed the fact that this ancient landmark had collapsed and fallen, burying beneath the debris all of the machinery contained in the four-story building.

This was one of the oldest cotton mills in North Carolina, having been erected by J. and E. B. Stowe in 1851, and was operated by them until about 1875, when it became the property of T. H. Gaither. The machinery would be a great curiosity to the mill men of the present age, as it was manufactured at least 60 years ago. It has not been learned whether the building will be replaced or not. The machinery would make a great show at the Pan-American Exposition, 1901.

IN THE MAYOR'S COURT.

Broken Noses Get No Credit Before His Honor, the Mayor, Under Certain Circumstances.

In the Police Court yesterday afternoon J. C. McDowell and J. Mat Haney were called before the bar of justice for an affray. In addition to two eye witnesses, McDowell carried a broken nose as indisputable evidence that there had been an affray and that Haney's muscle was something to be feared.

The affray occurred in front of the dispensary, the immediate cause being an approbrious epithet applied to Haney by McDowell, who was in his cups.

The mayor fined Haney $3 and McDowell $5, saying the broken nose would not receive any credit, since its owner had handled words which never fail to bring on a fight in this part of the country.

Haney is from High Point and was the first detective to work up any cases against violators of the law in Greensboro.

W. H. Mills, a young white man, apparently of good character, was placed under a bond of $30 for his appearance at the next term of Superior Court, the charge against him being an assault on Eugene Morehead. Mills had been drinking and said he had no remembrance of making an assault on any one.

There was a charge against Robert McDowell for handling a pistol indiscriminately, but on account of the absence of witnesses, the case was continued.

BOER FORCES AUGMENTING.

POOR WHITES AND BONDSMEN GOING TO THEIR STANDARD.

The British Warship Sybil Has Landed a Force of Bluejackets at Lambert's Point. By Wire to The Telegram.

Cape Town, Jan. 11.—The British warship Sybil has landed a force of bluejackets and a number of guns at Lambert's bay. This force has constructed entrenchments.

Hertzog and his main body, 700 strong, with two guns, has crossed the Reggeval mountains and now is probably in the neighborhood of Elands Drift, 50 miles east of Clan William, their intention being apparently to move towards Ceres and Worcester. Only a few passes are passable for guns and the whole country is difficult to traverse. The passes are narrow and easily defended. According to the latest reliable reports, another party of 500 Boers has reached Doorn river, 70 miles south of Calvin, and are doing all they can to meet the situation. Refugees are flocking in from Calvin and Clan William to the Piquetburg Road. They state that many poor whites are certain to join the Boers as are also many bondsmen in the neighborhood of Clan William and Malmesburg who openly declare they intend to join the invaders.

SHOULD REVISE THEIR COMPLAINT.

Snow Three Feet Deep.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Vancouver, Jan. 11.—The entire mainland of British Columbia is snow bound. Such a condition is not unusual in the Rocky Mountains in winter, but quite exceptional along the coast, where rarely more than an inch or two of snow falls in the entire winter. Snow began falling 11 days ago, and has continued intermittently ever since, till it is three feet deep on a level in the streets.

Investigating Bellevue Hospital.

New York, Jan. 11.—It is probable that the investigation of Bellevue Hospital which the grand jury begins today, will include a personal inspection of the Hospital by members of the jury today or tomorrow. The records of the insane were taken to the district attorney's office yesterday. It is believed that the insane ward will be first investigated. The resignation of five more pupil nurses in the Mills Training School increases the total number of resignations to 32.

WILL REMAIN IN PEKIN.

POWERS DO NOT ACCEPT PROPOSITION OF UNITED STATES.

Desiring to Avoid All Delay Possible the President Gives Up the Plan—The Note Signed.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Pekin, Jan. 11.—Prince Ching has received a telegram from the Court objecting to clause three in the joint note regarding the punishment of more than those mentioned in the imperial decree of September. He replied that it was necessary to sign first and argue afterwards, ministers being requested not to listen to argument until they shall have received a definite reply to the demands. Prince Chun, a brother of the Emperor, says he knows his brother's sentiments are in favor of returning to Pekin. Indeed, the Emperor wrote Prince Ching recently and asked if his apartments were in a fit state for his early return.

DON'T ACCEPT OUR PROPOSITION.

Washington, Jan. 10.—The proposition submitted by the President to transfer the negotiations of the questions of indemnity and revision of commercial treaties to some other place than Pekin was designed to facilitate the conclusion of the Chinese negotiations as a whole, by separating those still requiring considerable deliberation from those already determined. As some of the powers do not look with favor upon this separation, and others hesitate to decide the question, the President has deemed it advisable to direct the diplomatic representatives abroad to cease to press the proposition. At the same time, desiring above all else to avoid delay in the progress of negotiations, the President has directed Mr. Conger to urge forward their completion at Pekin. The other governments also have been urgently requested to avoid all unnecessary delay in completing the settlement of the Chinese question.

The foregoing gives in authoritative form the important action determined upon and carried out today. As specifically stated, the action was brought about because some of the powers did not look with favor upon the proposal, while others held back in giving their decision. Under these circumstances it was manifest to the officials here that unity of action was impossible and as long as even one power declined to accept the proposition, there could be no effective agreement for removing these two subjects of negotiation from Pekin.

THE JOINT NOTE SIGNED.

Paris, Jan. 10.—As the result of inquiries in authoritative quarters the Associated Press is given the following statement in regard to the Chinese situation:

"The Chinese plenipotentiaries signed the joint note yesterday, thus concluding the preliminary stage of the negotiations."

J., Jan. 11.—The State board of assessors informs the legislature in a report just made that the corporations paid into the treasury last year two million, fifty-one thousand, two hundred and nine dollars. There were six thousand and sixty-five corporations. The tax is one-tenth of one per cent. of the paid in capital.

SOME GOSSIP FROM NEW YORK.

FROM THE LATEST NEWSPAPER PAD TO THE BELL BOY.

Mr. Croker at Wantage Concerned About the English Tax on His Income, While Whole Chunks of It Here Are Being Taken.

Correspondence of The Telegram.

New York, Jan. 11.—The reading public seems to be divided in opinion as to Mr. Harnsworth's experiment with the World on New Year's Day. Some think it was harmful, others that it was harmless. The handiness of the new shape for reading in the cars or on the ferryboats was apparent to all, and it was also convenient for putting in the pocket. But all newspaper readers do not do their reading on the cars or on ferryboats. There are some people in the world who appear to stay home, instead of traveling to and fro to business. Then the ladies wouldn't care to put the newspapers in their pockets. They don't even put their pocket books there, but carry them where he who runs may snatch them.

It is apparent to newspaper men that Mr. Harnsworth didn't have a fully fair trial. There was considerable condensation, but it was in spots. There could have been much more of it to advantage. In departmentizing the readers found there was as much to blame as to praise, as it evidently tended to restrict the editor ever more than did the change of paging. Generally it was clear that until Mr. Harnsworth's plan is able to break the news of the bad habit of coming in spurts and get it down to happening just so many columns a day, the same as he restricts the advertisements, the plan lacks perfection.

Since the sky-scrapers have all adopted the revolving doors, it is felt by a considerable portion of the public that a professorship will have to be established for the proper education of a large public that uses them, certainly of the small boy who condescends to do the errand work of large firms. The young rascals seem to think that all the fun they can get out of the revolvers is clear gain in lightening the burden of the day's toil. So they whirl the doors around as swiftly as they can, and woe to the aged person with slow-moving feet. He stands in danger of having his boot-heels knocked off. The ladies, "God bless 'em," as somebody—indeed many somebodies—says, have a way of their own. Quite a number of them will insist on turning the doors the opposite way. Of course they must have their way—with men, but with these doors they must simply give way to the way of the door.

Speaking of ladies and doors reminds one of the promptness with which the ferry-hands shut the gates, and the novel incidents that sometimes occur. The other day a lady of much style just swung through a ferry gate as the man was closing it. It was nip and tuck, or more properly rip and tear, and she walked to the boat no less promptly, to be sure, but certainly with much less bustle than had accompanied her movement in the ferry-house.

The purifying fight now going on is certainly causing the biggest tempest in a teapot since the Boss Tweed days. It has hardly begun, and yet the District Attorney's office has already been turned topsy-turvy, and New York is already sure of a new police system, and perhaps a new charter is on the way. Certainly some important changes in the present charter will be made. It has some glaring defects. It costs a great deal more in proportion to govern Greater New York than it did to govern the component parts of New York. There are too many governing bodies, and responsibility is so easily avoided that it is hard telling who is to blame. The demi-monde, however, seems to think that, no matter who is to blame, it is the one to suffer, and so by the hundreds these birds of ill-omen have betaken themselves to Hoboken, which is far too small for them. But if New York wakes up some fine morning and finds that all its political plunderers and their endless chain of dependents are in jail and all the fair but frail ones are across the North River, there will be rejoicing among the decent citizens. The Methodists will then think that a start has been made in the programme of converting two millions of sinners into two millions of saints. Yet when $20,000 is paid for the three-years' unexpired term of a lease on Park Row and Beekman street for a saloon in which not more than a hundred can get drunk at a time, it must be that there is still a calculation on the part of calculating liquor sellers that much rum will still be drank in this little town.

Meanwhile, Mr. Croker is over at Wantage, and is said to be in absolute ignorance of these goings-on in Gotham. He is only troubled about the way in which the English are taxing his income, while on this side his income is being taken away in huge chunks. When he hears of what has been done on this side, he will probably conclude that "facilis descensus Averno" is a truthful proverb.

On dit, the Sun is said to be getting back its old trade. The boycott that the striking "Big Six" printers instituted against that newspaper and carried on with peculiar bitterness, has lost force of late. Some of the head movers in the crusade have burnt their fingers. Publisher Laffan is a sturdy fighter, one of the never-give-up kind. He is a graduate of Dublin University, and a connoisseur in art matters, but has also a pretty way of fighting opponents or of turning a neat sentence. For vitriolic virility Mr. Laffan has no equal on the American press. It was he that wrote the famous "Move On, Pulitzer," editorial and the scorching editorials that appeared during the Homestead riots.

EMBRACES MORMONISM AT 60

AN AGED ROWAN FARMER A PREY TO THE ELDERS.

Though in Good Circumstances He Sells Out and Will Carry His Wife and Daughters to Utah.

Salisbury Sun.

Our St. Paul correspondent sends us the following regarding the apostasy of Mr. George Goodman, a well known citizen and good farmer of this county:

Mr. George Goodman, one of St. Paul's best farmers, has sold his plantation to Mr. Geo. M. Misenheimer for $1,650.

As soon as Mr. Goodman can dispose of his horses, cattle, farming implements and other property, he will bid North Carolina farewell and take his family to Utah, the land of Joseph Smith, where he will make his future home.

For several months two Mormon elders have been making Mr. Goodman's house their home and they have so completely hypnotized him that he has accepted their faith and will in future cast his lot among them.

Mr. Goodman's family consists of a wife, two sons and two grown daughters.

After selling everything, Mr. Goodman will probably have $2,500 to take to Mormon land, provided the local elders don't get it before he leaves.

Mr. Goodman is a hard working man and by the strictest of economy, has just finished paying for his plantation. He has all the latest improved farming machinery and is now in a position to live easy.

Friends have remonstrated with Mr. Goodman but he turns away and will not listen to reason.

Mr. Goodman's only excuse for leaving North Carolina is that he wants to see some of the world. It is not known that Mr. Goodman has ever been out of Rowan county, and as he is about 60 years old, this is considered a late day in life to become a globe trotter.

These Mormon elders are doing more harm in the rural country districts than is generally supposed. Of course they are turned down by a big majority of the people, still they find a number who are willing to accept their doctrine.

Locomotive Building.

New York, Jan. 11.—Reliable figures gathered from the different manufacturing show that the output in 1900 was greater than in any previous year. All the contracting locomotive works built 3,153 locomotives, which is 680, or 27.5 per cent. more than in 1899, when the record was also broken. Of this output, 505, or about 16 per cent., were exported. The various car-building shops in the United States built 124,104 cars during the year, as against 123,983 in 1899. Of 1900's output 113,070 were freight, 1,515 passenger and 6,091 street cars for use in this country, and 2,561 freight, 121 passenger and 748 street cars for export. The extension of the steel-car industry is shown by the fact that of the total freight cars turned out last year, 14,464 were all steel, and 447 of them were for export. The previous year the total was 10,500, while in 1898 only 2,700 steel cars were built.

RHEUMATISM—CATARRH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments, doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air blood purifiers, have failed to do. B. B. B. always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure and so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Fashion Fact and Fancy

8144—Child's Fancy Apron. 4, 6, 8 and 10 years.

CHILD'S FANCY APRON, NO. 8144.

Fancy aprons afford dainty protection for a handsome dress and often cover a partially-worn but pretty costume in a most attractive manner.

This stylish apron is made of fine white lawn, trimmed with Hamburg insertion and edging.

The full fronts and back are gathered at the lower edge of a shallow yoke, the fullness at the waist being distributed on a narrow belt. The neck is completed with a broad bertha collar, which is edged with embroidery surmounted by a band of insertion.

The straight skirt is gathered and arranged on the belt, the fullness being evenly distributed. The closing is made in the center-back, with buttons and buttonholes worked through the belt and yoke. The skirt is finished with a deep hem, that may be machine or hemstitched.

Aprons in this style are made of dimity, nainsook, swiss, percale, mercerized cotton and trimmed with lace insertion or embroidery. Baby ribbon is sometimes run through a beading at the edge of the bertha collar and arranged in rosettes on the square corners.

To make the apron for a child six years will require one and one-half yards of insertion, and two and one-half yards of insertion, and two and one-half yards of embroidery. The pattern, No. 8144, is cut in sizes for children four, six, eight and ten years.

THE TELEGRAM will receive and forward orders for all patterns described in this column. The price is only ten cents for each pattern to cover cost of mailing and handling. In ordering fill blank below and send to The Telegram office:

FRIDAY, JANUARY 11

A FILIPINO APPEAL.

From the report of the proceedings of Congress yesterday, we get this:

Mr. Teller presented a memorial from 2,000 "Filipinos and peaceful inhabitants" of Manila. The memorial was in the form of an appeal to the Congress of the United States, and, as Mr. Teller states, was signed personally by the leading people of Manila and that section—lawyers, bankers and professional men representing the best elements of the community. It reviewed the circumstances leading up to the present struggle of the Filipinos for independence. It paid a high tribute to the work of Aguinaldo and his coadjutors in their endeavors to obtain liberty and independence for the people of the Philippines.

Reference was made to some of the principal events of the present revolution against American authority, the petition urging that the American troops had failed to make a serious impression upon the revolutionary party. It pointed out that Aguinaldo had declared that he might lose the hope of victory, but he would not lose the hope of dying for the liberty and independence of his people. It points out that the revolution has the support of practically all the people of the Philippines and declares that though 100 revolutionists be destroyed, 1,000 will rise up to support the fight for independence. All of the islands of the archipelago, says the memorial, are supporting the revolution and they will not yield until the last drop of Filipino blood has been shed. The Filipino nation, the memorial continues, bearing in mind the history of America and its humanitarian doctrines, asks the government of the United States to cease its "persecution of men struggling to be free."

The appeal declares that autonomy similar to that enjoyed by Canada or Australia would not be acceptable to the Filipinos, who desire full liberty and independence, and they urge the government of the United States to give them liberty and independence.

Brother Teller has evidently been imposed upon by the petitioners. We suppose that in Manila it is like it is everywhere, petitioners are so easy to get. And a big part of the petitioners never know what they petition for, and a large part don't care. But being a petitioner adds to their importance. Mr. Teller's petition contains statements that are not true, and beside that, 2,000 from such a dense population of patriots is not a big showing.

There was introduced in the House yesterday a bill providing that the school taxes collected from white people be exclusively devoted to white schools and only taxes collected from colored people applied to negro schools. Some such bill is brought before every session of the legislature. We do not know that this amounts to any more than a desire of some member to put his opinion into prominence. If it does mean more than that, we desire to go on record against the spirit manifested in it, for certainly no such preposterous measure will ever be passed. It is unwise and ungenerous, to say nothing of its probable illegality. Not a smaller thing could be conceived of.

One of the demands of the representatives of the powers in the ultimatum presented to China was that not only the list of persons submitted them by them should be punished, but also any other list which they may hereafter suggest. It is not surprising that the Chinese officials object to this. It is entirely too much of a pig-in-a-poke affair. Under such an agreement there would be no telling whose pig tail was safe.

The legalized primry is coming in on time. It got among the very first bills introduced in the legislature. It is safe to say that it will rest quietly in an unknown pigeon hole.

It is stated that John H. Winder may succeed Mr. E. St. John as Vice-President and General Manager of the Seaboard Air Line. We do not credit this rumor. In the resignation of Mr. St. John the Seaboard sustains a distinct loss.

Don't tell the Legislature your troubles. That body has a full supply of the genuine article.—Concord Tribune.

What do you think a legislature is for, anyhow?

A Christian Up to a Certain Point.

Biblical Redorder

A recent fiction tells a story of a man who declared that he was a Christian up to a certain point. The story is as follows: "Uncle Eb was riding on the cars occupying a seat to himself, a woman evangelist came and took a seat beside him. 'My friend,' said she, 'are you a Christian?' 'Fore I answer I'll have to tell ye a story,' said Uncle Eb. 'I recollect a man by the name o' Ranney over'n Vermont—he was a pious man. Got into an argyment, an' a feller slapped him in the face. Ranney turned 'tother side an' then 'tother, an' the feller kep' aslappin' hot 'n heavy. It was jes' like strappin a razor fer half a minnit. Then Ranney sailed in—give him the wust lickin' he ever had. Then some one axed Ranney if he wasn't a Christian! Up to a certain pint, said he.'

Greensboro Correspondence of the Charlotte Observer.

Greensboro may be made a distributing point for Schlitz Milwaukee beer. A representative of the brewery was here today looking the field over with a view to establishing a cold storage plant in this city. He is pleased with the advantages offered by Greensboro, particularly as a distributing point, and says that if the company is satisfied that the liquor business here will not be endangered by prohibition agitation the plant will be located in Greensboro. Otherwise Winston will be made a distributing point for this section. If the latter place is selected the business will probably be in charge of C. C. Shoffner & Co., proprietors of a saloon in the Twin City.

GOOD ADVICE.

The most miserable things in the world are those suffering from dyspepsia and liver complaint. More than seventy-five per cent. of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects: such as sour stomach, sick headache, habitual costiveness, palpitation of the heart, heart-burn, waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, yellow skin, coated tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, etc. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of August Flower for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. Try it. Get Green's Prize Almanac. Grissom & Fordham.

A THOUSAND TONGUES.

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard st., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"It soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store; every bottle guaranteed.

This season there is a large death rate among children from croup and lung troubles. Prompt action will save the little ones from these terrible diseases. Some Valuable Suggestions Regarding Plants and Other Domestic Matters.

The popular India-rubber plants need very little water during the cold months, when kept in the house, says the St. Louis Republic.

See that the cucumbers are sliced as thin as possible, and put cracked ice over them half an hour before they come to the table.

A sauce for wild duck is made by adding a little port wine or lemon juice to the bird gravy. A dash of cayenne pepper should be thrown in and the whole served piping hot.

It is poor economy to keep a raw onion after it is cut and a part has been used. A cut onion absorbs everything from air and from other materials near it, and is quickly made unfit for use.

Bedclothes fasteners are a necessity with little children who are apt to catch cold from their restlessness at night. Clips to hold the covering over them are now made and are said to answer their purpose perfectly.

An emergency luncheon dish is boiled rice with ham and tomato sauce. A cup of rice is steamed until tender and while still hot a little butter and some cold lean ham, chopped very fine (not more than half a cupful) are tossed lightly through it. The mixture is then piled in loaf shape on a platter and a tomato sauce poured over. The dish is very substantial and well takes the place of meat.

Sweet potato pudding makes a delicious dessert. Peel and parboil six large sweet potatoes and grate fine when cold. Cream, together with half a cup each of butter and sugar, beat into this the whipped yolks of five eggs, a cup of rich milk, the grated potato, a teaspoonful each of powdered cinnamon and nutmeg, the juice and grated rind of a lemon, and a wineglass of brandy. Beat hard and bake in a deep, graded pudding dish. Eat hot with brandy sauce.

Photographing Distant Objects.

Recent improvements in telephoto cameras are said to have obviated the old difficulty which required long exposures, and have rendered it possible to take pictures with such cameras as quickly as with those of ordinary construction. The improvement has been effected by placing a tube, containing a positive lens at one end and a negative at the other, in front of the ordinary lens of the camera.—Youth's Companion.

There seem to be no sleeves to full evening toilets. Some dinner gowns have elbow or even the long sleeve, and for the ballroom the shoulder strap suffices.—N. Y. Sun.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mrs. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: 'I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters: and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim.' No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

SLEW KISSING MAN WITH HATPIN.

Belle of Holiday Party Stabbed a Man Who Accepted Her Laughing Challenge.

Tacoma, Washington, Dispatch, 8th.

Frank Sloan is dead in Walla Walla Hospital, the victim of a girl's innocent remark, and the same girl's handy hatpin. Sloan came to the hospital from Prescott, Walla Walla county, a week ago, suffering from blood poisoning.

The young man paid for a virgin kiss with his life.

One of the numerous kissing games that were played at a holiday party was the beginning of Sloan's end. One of the participants was Miss Ella Boone, the prettiest girl in the neighborhood.

A part of the game was for a young man to blindfold a young woman. She was asked to name an article held before her by one of the party. The penalty of her failure was to give the privilege of a kiss to her questioner.

As Sloan bound a handkerchief over Miss Boone's eyes, she laughingly said:

"I've never been kissed. I never will be without my consent."

The careless remark was a spur to Sloan's natural impetuosity. He accepted the challenge, kissing the young woman full on the lips.

Miss Boone flew into a fit of rage. Taking a pin from her hat she drove the weapon into the young man's leg. It broke near the head.

Sloan retired from the game for a few minutes, but failed to remove the broken part of the weapon. He felt little pain, and remained at the house until the party broke up.

Miss Boone, after a spell of weeping, apologized to the young man for her hasty action, and all went home in good humor.

Next day the pain in Sloan's leg became intense. The local physician said that blood poisoning had resulted from the wound, and the young man was taken at once to Walla Walla.

An X-ray photograph was made of the patient's leg, but failed to show any sign of the remaining portion of the pin. Probing by the surgeons was without result, and Sloan grew steadily worse.

The poison from the wound spread through the young man's system, and he died in agony.

Miss Boone expresses the deepest regret for her act.

Cancer

There are never any external signs of Cancer until the blood is polluted and the system thoroughly contaminated by this deadly virulent poison. Then a sore or ulcer appears on some part of the body; it may be small and harmless looking at first, but as the cancerous cells form and are deposited by the blood near the sore, it increases in size and severity, with sharp shooting pains. No matter how often the sore is removed by the surgeon's knife or flesh destroying plasters, another comes and is worse. The real disease is in the blood, and the treatment must begin there. The poisoned blood must be invigorated and purified, and when this is done cancerous cells can no longer form and the sore will heal naturally and permanently.

Mrs. Sarah M. Keating, 641 Windsor Ave., Bristol, Tenn., writes: "I am 41 years old, and for three years had suffered with a severe form of Cancer on my jaw, which the doctors said was incurable, and that I could not live more than six months. I accepted their statement as true, and had given up all hope of ever being well again, when my druggist, knowing of my condition, recommended S. S. S. After taking a few bottles the sore began to heal, to the surprise of the physicians, and in a short time made a complete cure. I have gained in flesh, my appetite is splendid, sleep is refreshing—in fact, am enjoying perfect health."

SSS overcomes this destructive poison and removes every vestige of it from the system, makes new, rich blood, strengthens the body and builds up the general health.

If you have a suspicious sore, or have inherited any blood taint, send for our free book on Cancer, and write to our medical department for any information or advice wanted; we make no charge for this service. Your letter will receive prompt and careful attention, and will be held in strictest confidence.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of Scott's emulsion. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking Scott's Emulsion.

You will find it just as useful in summer as in winter, and if you are thriving upon it don't stop because the weather is warm.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample its agreeable taste will surprise you.

It quickly cures coughs, colds and all lung troubles of the severest nature, removing, as it does, the cause of the affection and leaving the parts in a strong and healthy condition. It is not an experimental medicine, but has stood the test of years, giving satisfaction in every case, which its rapidly increasing sale every season confirms. Two million bottles sold annually. Boschee's German Syrup was introduced in the United States in 1868, and is now sold in every town and village in the civilized world. Three doses will relieve any ordinary cough. Price 75 cts. MOTHER'S KINGDOM.

There is a kingdom dear on earth
Known by the name of home
Where love and happiness have birth,
With mother on the throne,
And with her love-bright scepter fair
She reigns in saint-like glory there.

If shadows dim the sacred place,
And touch the subjects dear,
With tender lovelight on her face
That shows no signs of fear,
She smiles and prays until the night
Wears the bright crown of morning light.

And if some foe seeks to invade
The peace-crowned fair domain,
The brave, true mother, undismayed,
Is on Love's altar slain,
To live or die for the weak child
By sin and sorrow both defiled.

O holy kingdom, ruled by love
And earnest prayer and smile,
The kingdom most like that above,
Which knows no sin or guile,
Forever may thy holy light
Banish the gloom of sin and night.

O faithful mother, evermore
May thy true woman's hand
Wave love's sweet scepter gently o'er
The little household band!
While thou dost reign in thy great worth
God's angels white shall walk the earth!
—Mrs. M. A. Holt, in Christian Work.

The Story of a Lost Dog

PERSONALLY, I don't like so-called domestic animals, and, therefore, when my children came dragging after them a Scotch collie, with his hair all matted and his muddy feet leaving nasty-looking tracks on the library rugs, I spoke to them rather sharply and ordered Jawkins to kick the dog out.

"But he's lost, papa," said my eldest.

"Well, let him stay lost," I responded, rather gruffly.

"I speak somebody's awful sorry to lose him," said Jack, my five-year-old.

I was busy with my essay on "The Milk of Human Kindness," so when Jawkins (Jawkins is our general factotum—my wife calls him the butler)—dragged the dog out of my sight I forgot him. It seems the children considered the dog as treasure-trove, and they took him out and locked him in the stable, feeding him expensive steaks, which they found in the larder. He disturbed my rest that night with his mournful howling, and early in the morning I went down, opened the stable door and turned him loose.

Unfortunately, the treatment accorded that dog by my children had been so generous that the dog had sense enough not to stay lost. For days he continued to hang around my place, making life miserable for me, and my wife watched my cheeks growing sallow and my appetite diminishing with unceasing alarm.

It was rather a relief, therefore, when on the fourth day she brought me a copy of the News and pointed triumphantly to the following advertisement: FOUND—A SCOTCH COLLIE DOG; EVIDENTLY of fine breeding. The dog has been at our house for four days. Owner can regain possession of the animal by applying in person and paying property. No questions asked. Apply after nine a. m. at 6322 Delaware street.

"Thanks, my dear," I said, gratefully; "do you think that will get rid of him?"

"Not a doubt of it," said my wife.

Next morning, having finished a good breakfast and being just settled down to reading chapter 12 in Tupper's "Moral Philosophy," there was a ring at the front doorbell, and Jawkins said:

"A gent to see you, sir."

"Show him up," I replied, laying my book down with a sigh.

The individual who presented himself and calmly took a seat in my new Morris chair smirked and said:

"I am Rev. Theophilus Jubes, of the Third Theosophical church. I called in regard to the following:"

From his greasy garments he drew a dirty copy of the News and pointed with a chubby forefinger to the advertisement inserted by my wife.

"Ah," said I. "Yes, you want your dog. He is now tied up in the stable. Jawkins, show this gentleman his dog."

"Yes, sir," said Jawkins, leading the Theosophist out.

In a moment he returned. "Beg pardon, sir, but there's three gents and a lady waiting to see you, sir."

"Indeed," said I; "show them up—one at a time, Jawkins."

The first visitor, clad in blue overalls and carrying an odor of stale fish about his person, came hesitatingly in, looked with a senile smile at the books on the shelves, blushed a little as his eyes lighted on a full-length statuette of Psyche and said:

"I called about that dawg."

"Oh, yes," I replied. "Very sorry, but the dog turns out to be the property of a minister. He is out in my stable getting him, now."

"Well, but—that's—my—dawg—I reckon," slowly drawled my acquaintance. "I seed—that—ad.—last—night. I live out—at—Broad—Ripple. I—lost—him—last—week. 'Tain't—no—minister's dawg."

"What color was your dog?" I asked him.

"Brindle—gray—I—reckon," was the reply.

"Well, I'm sorry, but this can't be your dog, for he's black and tan."

"Wall," he replied, "I—guess—then—'tain't mine. Good—day—sir."

"Good day," I rejoined, shortly.

But still he lingered.

"Pardon me," I said. "There are others waiting to see me."

"Yes—I—know. Only—only—only—you—see—'t—cost—me—ten—cents—to—come—in—here—from—Broad—

Ripple—'n—I—thought—"

"Jawkins!" I shouted, "show the next man in."

The next man was a colored man, who was evidently employed in the whitewashing business. He was white everywhere except on his skin, and he powdered lime all over my apartment.

"Jes' called 'n' see 'bout that dorg, mister," he explained, with a grin.

"Dog's gone," I grunted.

"No, siree; no, he ain't. I seed that air preacher fellow a-wrestling with the dorg, and I done tole 'im he'd better drop him, 'case he's mine, 'n' the dorg's out there a-waitin' fer me now."

"Well, hang it all, go out and get him, then. I don't care who gets him, so long as some of you take him away."

"All right, sir; that dorg cert'nly am mine, 'n' I'se gwine to have 'im."

Then a young lady with an abbreviated skirt and an affected manner sidled into my room.

"Thank you so much," she giggled, "for advertising my Fido. You know I lost him while I was shopping in the Baltimore store last Friday. Dear little fellow, I do hope you've fed him. I know he won't eat meat. We always give him bread and milk. I'd like to pay you for your trouble, and how much did the advertisement cost? I suppose I'll have to pay that?"

"Miss," I said, "there's some mistake. The dog I've advertised is not named Fido. I do not know what his name is, but it's not Fido. As for feeding him bread and milk, this dog has eaten two dollars' worth of porterhouse steak and—"

"Well, I do think the police ought to get after these people who put misleading advertisements in the papers. I suppose they're too busy arresting gamblers to pay any attention to these confidence men; if my brother were here, he'd show you how to—"

"Jawkins," I shouted, "show the lady out."

"Beg pardon, sir," said Jawkins, with a suspicion of a smile. "There's seven boys of varying ages, about 36 men, nine women and a policeman waiting in the front yard to see you, sir; I believe it's in regard to an advertisement."

"O, Lord!" I ejaculated. "Show up the most respectable, Jawkins."

It was a middle-aged woman of hard visage that came in, and took the most comfortable chair in the place.

"Would you mind throwing that nasty cigar down," she said, looking at me from over her spectacles. "I can't abide smoke."

"Certainly, madam," I said, throwing my cigar in the fireplace. "What can I do for you? Did you come about the lost dog?"

"I came, sir, as the representative of the Associated Workers in the Cause of Right Living, to ask you for a subscription to—"

"Madam, I never subscribe thus early in the morning," I replied.

"They're still a-coming, sir," broke in Jawkins.

They were coming indeed!

They came on foot, in carriages, in farm wagons, in buggies. Each street car that stopped by my door discharged half a dozen or more passengers, who rushed pell-mell to my garden, which was by this time a seething mass of humanity. As I went to the front porch and looked out over the sea of faces, I could hear many in the crowd calling some one a "swindler."

"a cheat," and saying: "Don't believe he's got any dog," "It's all a put-up game," "He ought to be arrested," and similar remarks.

I sneaked back into the front hallway. "Jawkins," I said, "where is that dog?"

"That minister's trying to coax him out of the stable, sir," was the reply.

I went back to the stable and found the collie still tied there, but he was getting excited at the noise outside and at the strange manner of the Theosophist, who was, I believe, trying to hypnotize him. Under my instructions, Jawkins loosened the chain, and the dog, with a savage snarl, sprang at the Theosophist, who turned and fled. So did I. The dog caught the minister before he had gone very far, and took a good taste of theosophical blood; then he turned on the darky and got a mouthful of whitewash, and then, catching a glimpse of the large crowd, he ran around the house, and, with a battle cry in his throat, sailed in.

I was so excited and so exasperated at the events of the morning that I forgot myself, and in the midst of the melee found myself shouting: "Sic 'em, Tig! Take 'em, old man! Good doggie! Sic 'em! Sic!"

The crowd parted, wavered, fled, and the dog, hoarse with much barking, lay down on the front lawn, right in the midst of a bed of calla lilies, and panted with exhaustion.

"He's mad," went up the cry.

The street cars had stopped, the whole street in front of my house was filled with an excited mob, breathing dire vengeance on my devoted head. The policeman who had, in the meantime, sent in a hurry-up call for help to the police station, came stealthily around the house. He had a shining revolver in his hand. He crept up to the dog and with a well directed shot that startled the neighborhood, he ended the dog's troubles forever. I saw him bleeding all over my calla lilies. I saw the crowd, still growing in proportions as additional editions of the News gave my "ad" wider publicity, and, coward that I am, fearing the consequences, I fled out of the back door and am now spending more money than I can afford in Chicago, waiting for the effects of my want ad. to pass away.—Indianapolis News.

SOME CHINESE FAKES.

Wooden Cans of Beef and Pencils Without Lead Among Them.

"The wooden nutmeg Yankee and the fellow who sharpened shoe pegs at both ends and sold 'em for oats were raw amateurs compared to the heathen Chinese," remarked the traveling representative of a big house that deals in table delicacies, says the New Orleans Times-Democrat. "Our foreign agent, C. L. Bartow, who, by the way, is a native of New Orleans, was in Shanghai at the time the Boxers broke loose and has remained there ever since. A few weeks ago the firm received a package from him inclosing a lot of Chinese counterfeits of American goods which he had picked up at different times as curios. Some of the fakes were very ingenious and some were laughable in their cold-blooded rascality. Among the lot, for instance, was a packet of what looked exactly like ordinary American lead pencils, with the name of a well-known maker stamped in gilt at one end. They were perfect fac-similes and would, no doubt, have answered just as well as the genuine if they had contained any lead; but that feature was omitted. They were simply round sticks, stained black. Of course such brazen frauds are not sold in the established shops. They are handled by native peddlers, who work them off in large quantities on foreigners who are purchasing supplies. Mr. Bartow writes that an English engineering officer of his acquaintance invested in 100 dozen. Another gem in the collection is a box of toilet soap made out of a sort of clay, mixed with a little grease and stained pink. The stuff looks like soap, feels like soap and smells like soap, and as long as one keeps it away from water it is all right. But if it gets wet it becomes mud. What was perhaps the oddest fake in the lot was a dummy can of beef. It was simply a cylinder of wood covered at both ends with lead-colored metallic paint and wrapped around with what appeared to be a genuine American label. In making the weight exactly the same as that of a bona fide tin of meat the Chinese counterfeiter had displayed a good deal of cunning. The wood was a little too heavy, and to reduce it to the proper point he had bored a hole in the side and plugged it with light, porous earth. The label is so perfect that we are in doubt whether it is a lithographed copy or the real thing, stripped from some old can. The dummy is one of a big consignment which is said to have been unloaded on an army contractor. He was told that the stuff had been stolen from an American warehouse, and when the lot was exhibited to him in a partially darkened room a few dozen real cans were scattered around on top. They were opened in his presence to show the quality of the meat, and he was fool enough to buy the entire supply at about half price. The Chinese declare the victim was a Jap, but that statement may be taken with a little salt—say a hoghead full."

How Polly Knew.

A "befo-de-war" matron was teaching one of the little dorkies on her plantation how to spell. The primer she used was a pictorial one, and over each word was its accompanying picture, and Polly glibly spelled "o-x, ox," and "b-o-x, box," etc. But the teacher thought she was making too rapid progress, so she put her hand over the picture and said: "Polly, what does o-x spell?" "Ox," answered Polly, nimbly. "How do you know that it spells ox, Polly?" "Seed his tail," replied the apt Polly.—Argonaut.

Women's Stockings Look as If They Were Falling Over Her Shoes.

When a woman raises her skirts nowadays the passer-by with sharp eyes will notice what appears to be a stocking slipping down beyond physical and moral support. She is in no danger of losing it. It won't turn down even over her foot. It is merely the mousquetaire stocking, the latest of feminine folly's fads, says the Chicago Chronicle. Just as a long glove would wrinkle over my lady's wrist and arm, so her long stocking now wrinkles over her leg. This probably was devised by the girl with thin lower extremities for the consternation of her stout friend, who could not afford to add anything to the circumference of that part of her body. The stout lady, therefore, will content herself with the stripes and clockwork which decorate the skin-tight hosiery, while the thin girl will don the interminable hose that will wrinkle throughout their length. Some of the mousquetaire stockings are woven to produce a semblance of wrinkles, and there really is no letting down at all, but others are arranged with just enough allowance to produce the fashionable wrinkle. Of course, this careless effect must be planned carefully. To prevent the stocking from getting into unseemly bunches extra garters, to be placed at necessary intervals, are devised of narrow elastic and matching the stocking in color. One of these, just above the shoe top, fastens with a small, handsome buckle or bow of ribbon, another appearance that would induce the belief in the uninitiated that the woman was losing her garter.

In many ways this season's hosiery is a startling proposition. No color is too brilliant and no design too outre to find favor with fashion. Check-boards and weird figures that make one think of the tattooed lady in the side show are much in evidence. Gaudy stripes, extending lengthwise or in circular fashion, are equally popular. For full-dress stockings of elaborately wrought openwork have the effect of delicate lace.

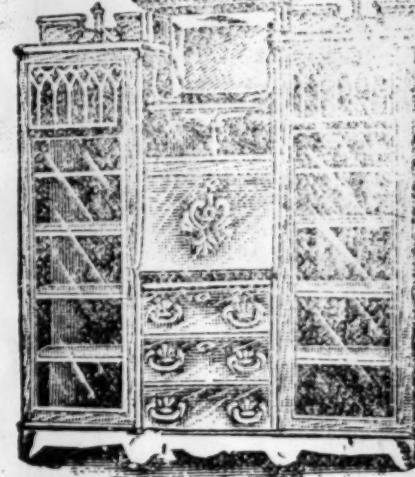

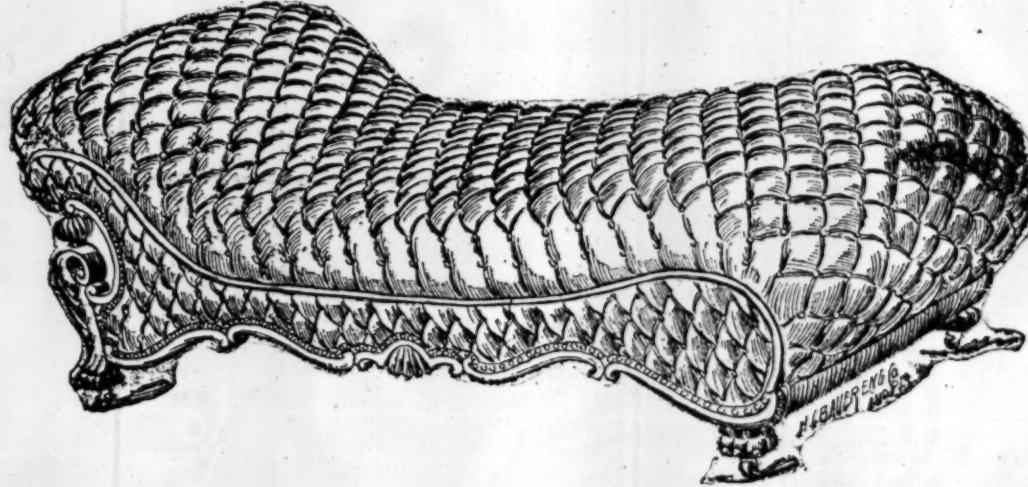

Celery Sauce.

Place one pint of fine cut white celery in a saucepan over the fire, cover with boiling water, add one-half teaspoonful salt, and cook till tender. Drain the celery and set it in a warm place. Mix one heaping tablespoonful flour in a saucepan with half gill of cold water, add half pint celery water and half cupful milk, stir over the fire till it begins to boil, draw to side of stove and add, in small portions, one tablespoonful butter, whilst stirring constantly, add, if necessary, a pinch of salt. Pour the sauce over the oysters and serve.—Ledger Monthly.

Scalloped Potatoes.

In preparing them for scalloping five large potatoes were sliced thin. A layer of slices was placed in the bottom of a baking dish, and over them were scattered small bits of butter and sprinklings of salt, pepper and flour. This was continued until all of the potatoes and a rounding tablespoonful of flour and twice that amount of butter had been used. Butter, flour and seasoning were the last layer. Over them was poured a half cupful of hot water, and they were placed in a hot oven to bake 30 or 40 minutes.—N. Y. Tribune.

Stains on brass will generally yield to paraffin or bath brick. If they are unusually obstinate try rubbing them with a little salt and vinegar, and polish afterward with dry brick.—N. Y. Journal.
